2011 Legendary Landmark John Vinci

John Vinci has established a reputation for excellence in the restoration of historic architecture and the design of new buildings. He has been a principal of his own architecture firm since 1969. His restoration work includes Louis Sullivan's Chicago Stock Exchange Trading Room, Frank Lloyd Wright's Studio in Oak Park and Glasner House in Glencoe and numerous projects for the Art Institute of Chicago. His new buildings include the National Italian-American Sports Hall of Fame, the Arts Club of Chicago, and several award-winning residences. He is coauthor of "The Complete Architecture of Adler & Sullivan" and he was elected to the American Institute of Architects' College of Fellows in 1992.
