2009 Legendary Landmark Richard Driehaus

Richard H. Driehaus, CEO of Driehaus Capital Management, is a key figure in the Chicago Historic Preservation movement through both the Richard H. Driehaus Foundation and the Richard H. Driehaus Charitable Trusts. Preservation efforts have included restoration of the Ransom Cable House in Chicago (headquarters for Driehaus Capital Management LLC) and the Historic Nickerson Mansion, which opened in 2008 as the Richard H. Driehaus Museum. The foundation also administers the Richard Driehaus Prize for Classical Architecture, through the University of Notre Dame. Mr. Driehaus is actively involved in the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Landmarks Illinois, The Wisconsin Trust for Historic Preservation and several preservation organizations in the U.S. Virgin Islands.
