

LANDMARKS ILLINOIS

2014 Corporate Landmark

John A. Terlato
Terlato Wines

Lake Bluff-based Terlato Wines is a leading marketer of luxury wines in the United States, representing more than 70 brands from more than a dozen countries. John A. Terlato serves as Vice Chairman of Terlato Wine Group (TWG) and Terlato Wines.

Tangley Oaks, Terlato's headquarters, exemplifies the Terlato family's commitment to quality. John Terlato spearheaded the restoration of the property, which was originally commissioned in 1916 by meat packing heir Philip D. Armour, III and his wife Gwendolen Condon. Architect Harrie T. Lindeberg completed the gracious Tudor-Gothic manor in 1932. Terlato Wines purchased Tangley Oaks, as it is now known, in 1995. In collaboration with Mr. Thomas Rajkovich, John Terlato ensured the year-long restoration adhered to rigid standards to return the building to its original glory, complete with original furnishings. Today it is a unique example of the elegance of the era in which it was built. The culmination of this restoration project by the Terlatos was the placement of this home on the National Register of Historic Places in 1996.